

MCC(SW/AW) Dale Davis

Originally from a small town on the Texas Gulf Coast, MCC Davis enlisted in the Navy as a Photographer's Mate in 1995.

Following his initial entry training in Pensacola, Fla., he reported onboard USS Independence (CV 62) forward deployed to Yokosuka, Japan, where he served in the ship's Carrier Intelligence Center (CVIC) photo lab.

Upon the Independence's decommissioning, Chief Davis cross-decked to USS Kitty Hawk (CV 63) in Yokosuka, Japan to serve as production supervisor for the ship's main photo lab.

In 2001 he transferred to the Regional Visual Information Support Center at Naval Station Roosevelt Roads, Puerto Rico.

He was reassigned to the Fleet Intelligence Training Center in San Diego in 2003, serving as instructor and course curriculum model manager for the Intelligence Photography Course. While at this command, he qualified as Master Training Specialist and was named the Center for Naval Intelligence Instructor of the Year.

In 2005, he returned to Japan to serve onboard USS Blue Ridge (LCC 19) as the Media Services Department Leading Petty Officer. It was during this tour that he was selected for advancement to Chief Petty Officer.

He then transferred to the staff of commander, Navy Region Northwest, where he served as both the region media officer and deputy public affairs officer for Naval Base Kitsap.

Chief Davis is currently assigned to the Defense Information School in Fort Meade, Md. as an instructor in the Basic Mass Communication Specialist Course.
